When the paralysis is complete-when an arm, leg or hand cannot be moved at all-then physiotherapy must be employed This may be by massage, or by exercising the paralyzed region for the patient, or by some more technical methods.

Daily Exercise

But if some motion remains possible, that is good news. Even if the patient cannot walk, but still has some ability to move the leg, that is the thing to do: exercise it every day. The kind of exercise is not particularly important. It depends on what the patient can do. Just moving it helps, and greater ability to move it develops as you go zlong.

Some ability of movement indicates that, although there has been damage to the brain, the particular area still has control. When some control remains, this ordinarily indicates that a degree of recovery is possible, too.

For the hands or forearms, lifting small weights, and gradually increasing the amount; squeezing a rubber ball; working the fingers back and forth, all are simple but practical exercises. As strength and control develop, it is then possible to move on to things requiring greater control—eating, playing games, writing and so on.

This takes time and patient effort every day. When the stroke has been severe it is not wise to expect complete recovery, but steady effort will bring

The POWER of FAITH BY WOOCH ISHMAEL

The Beautiful and Unique Chapel No. 1 at Randolph Air Force Base in Texas is a symbol of faith in the Armed Forces. Within this church, whose architecture combines that of the San Antonia missions San Jose and Conception, services are held each Sunday for five of our great Christian Faiths. The altar is changed to fit each service including Catholic Mass, Episcopal Communion, and Baptist, Methodist, Lutheran and Mormon. The chaplains of each faith work together to give meaning to the spiritual life of Randolph. One thing is constant; four flags are suspended from the walls of the chancel and remain there throughout all services. The American flag, the Christian flag, the HOLY ANGELS CATHOLIC. Rev. Wil-liam Rickert, pestor Sunday messes II. 9.30 (High), and 11 a.m. Seturday con-fessions 3.30 to 4.30 and 7 to 8.30 a.m. said, "In my Father's House are many mansions. .." ### Use Right Cement for Mending

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I received a large beer stein from my son in Germany When opened, I found the handle broken in two places. I want very much to repair it. What type of glue or adhesive should I use?

A. If the handle is ceramic, like the stein itself, use a clear. all - purpose household cement containing epoxy. If the handle is metal, use plastic steel. Carefully follow directions, and your repair will easily withstand the stein's weight even when it's brimming with brew.

Q. What is the easiest and most inexpensive way of repairing white steel cabinets? They have large scratches, and tiny chips, and are slightly yellowing Would it be practical to paint them? What can be done to prevent yellowing if we re-

Don't bet that you'll be able to send your children to college just through some lucky chance. Nowadays, it takes at least six thousand dollars for four years of college. The best way to be sure you'll have that much money when the time comes is to plan for it. For example, if you begin saving for a youngster's higher education when the child is one year old, you'll need to save only $21.00 monthly to have a tidy $4,284.00 by the time that child is eighteen. And if you save at Twin City Savings and Loan, you'll have an astonishing $1,838.87 in earnings on your savings*. There's your six thousand dollars... and then some. Stop in and ask about establishing a college fund.

*Based on the current rate of 4% per annum. Twin City Savings' new home, just one door east of the present location, will be started soon ... hoop year eye on pregress!

Deepening Crisis in Laos, Viet Nam

The United States has been caught in Southeast Asia in a move by Chinese and Vietnamese Communists aiming at a double victory. And the efforts of Secretary of State Dean Rusk to get the Soviet Union to put on pressure to halt the Red attacks can only succeed if Russia is willing to turn actively against Red China. It is a possibility because the successes of the Viet Cong and the Pathet Lao are a feather in Mao Tae-Tung's fur hat and a direct challenge to the Soviet Union.

Russia along with Great Britain is a guarantor of Laotian neutrality Obviously the Russians can't be trusted with such a position as far as the free world is concerned. But do they want the triumph of Communism in the area as a triumph for the Chinese?

The situation is ideal from the Chinese point of view. The confusion about two coups in Viet Nam has left that country ripe for attack especially since the United States forces appear to be poorly equipped to wage the jungle war they are fighting. And Secretary of Defense Mc-Namara, who is not really a fool, sounds like one when he says that their equipment is adequate for their role as "ad-

In Laos the Communists have been able to develop control in the north during the four years of neutral government and the International Control Commission which never investigated complaints of Red aggression because its members, Canada, Poland and India couldn't agree. Cambodia's prince last winter decided that the United States role in the area was one of impotence and he threw his weight to the Chinese. Cambodia has become a fine base for attacks into Viet Nam. And the announcement that the U.S. is going to send more troops to Thailand may give the Thais some support but it certainly isn't going to halt the Red take-overs in Laos and Viet Nam.

President Kennedy's Adminstration had a serious fault of procrastination in Southeast Asia as well as in the Caribbean. When Russia aimed missiles at us from Cuba, Kennedy finally acted in that region but nothing ever was really done in Viet Nam. President Johnson seems to have inherited this inability to make up his mind. Either we should fight the war to win or at the very least to maintain present lines or we should withdraw. The present course is one of losing under the most humiliating circumstances.

Premier Khrushchev may be in almost as serious a dilemma. If he does nothing, the Chinese Communists' prestige in Asia is going to climb tremendously with a victory. But opposition would almost surely mean Russian troops in Laos fighting other Communists. And is this something that the United States wants to encourage?

The State Department official announcement that "we are not ruling out any measure which may be necessary to preserve the neutrality and independence of Laos," obviously doesn't mean a thing. Laos cannot really be considered either neutral or independent right now. And the Geneva accords which we signed in 1962 forbid foreign troops. The Chinese have a great deal to gain and nothing much worth losing by pushing into both Laos and Viet Nam just as far as they can.

Borneo, the world's third largest island, is an unlikely place to fight a war.

It is mostly heavy jungle rugged and mountainous in the interior and with few communications routes other than rivers. Rainfall exceeds 100 inches annually and the monmen season is long, November through May. The interior is mbabited mostly by semi-pe-gan Dyak tribes, some of whom still hunt heads. The coastal areas, mostly swampy. support a hodge-podge population of Chinese, Malays, Arabs and Javanese.

There are, of course, the British, and there lies the rub The southern two-thirds of the island, some 200,000 square miles, is called Kalimantan, and forms one of the ten provinces of Indonesia. Along the northern rim of the island are the states of Sarawak and Sabah (formerly called North Borneo), and together with Malaya and Singapore they form the new nation of Malaysia. Malaysia, with British protection, was born in 1963. and President Sukarno of Indonesia has sworn to liquidate

"nasty little guerrilla war" is already simmering along the rugged 800-mile border between Kalimantan and Sarawak and Sabah. RUSSIANS ARE THERE

It could become much more. As usual in the world's trouble spots, the Soviet Union is there, marching side by side with Sukarno. Western sources estimate that Russian military aid to Indonesia-including MIG fighters and Badger twin-engine bombers — is half a billion dollars or more.

al Air Force and the Royal Navy. Altogether, British forces in Borneo total perhaps 6,800, against an Indonesian armed force of 240,000.

Standing neutral is the Sultan of Brunei, who rules a wedge of land the size of Delwak and Sabah. His Highness Sultan Sir Omar Ali Saifudding Wasa'dul Khairi Waddin is 47, and his little sultanate spews out oil at the rate of $20 million a year in royalties, faster than the sultan can spend it. Britain protects Brunei too, even though it refused to join Maiaysia, and Brunei's principal worry at the moment is that, so the geologists say, the oil wells will run dry in 10 years. War, or Sukarno, may

Negro Leadership

A Negro attorney in Milwaukee who has been a long-time legal champion of his race has resigned from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People because of the school boycott conducted there.

James Dorsey criticized the NAACP chapter for abandoning its long-time policv of fighting for civil rights chiefly in the courtroom. He said it had allowed itself to be dictated to by other so-called civil rights groups.

"Other groups (of minorities) have accomplished a full measure of citizenship without demonstrations" he remarked significantly. He said the mass demonstration in Milwaukee was "using little children as guinea pigs for the accomplishment of personal ambitions of individu-being forced aside by irresponsible leaders with, as he remarks, unsatiated personal ambitions.

Supporters of the Civil Rights Bill have declared that if Congress does not act by this summer more responsible leaders of Negro organizations will lose their jobs. It can be argued on the other side of the coin that the Civil Rights Bill of itself will not put an end to demonstrations like BY JOHN WYNGAARD the Milwaukee school boycott.

The one hopeful aspect of the situation is that the more radical Negro leaders have not won support from a majority of the colored people, at least yet. We must constantly keep in mind that in contrast to the few irresponsible members of the race who make the headlines there are many Negroes like Mr. Dorsey who still see the problem in a longer-term perspective. For while the Negroes are certainly entitled to equal legal rights under the Constitution, they are going to have to earn opportunity and respect.

which is the theoretical ideal of representative government. In spite of the travail and the shattering of precedent that has been involved, there remains one Senate district that is nearly one-third larger than another, and one Assembly district more than twice the size of another.

In the state as a whole, 45.4 per cent of the inhabitants will be able to elect 50 per cent of the assemblymen, and 48.4 per cent of the voters will be able to elect half of the state senators. In the State Senate apportionment the new districting is substantially closer to equality than was the legislative Republican majority bill which was vetoed by Democratic Gov. Reynolds. But in the Assembly the districting is only minutely improved, giving a slightly larger minority of the total vote than the legislative bill contemplated majority control of the lower

Principal among these is the inviolability of county lines. The Court felt bound to prescribe Assembly districts consisting of either a whole county, several whole counties, or several Assembly districts wholly within a single county, on the one hand, and upheld the inviolability of Assembly district lines, on the other hand, in the formation of State

Editor, Post-Crescent: Many worthy names for the I propose a tribute to this ednew southeast senior high school have been submitted for consideration. So frequently a dedication is 🛦 memory

Have we ever considered our present leaders who render many years of service to the interests of the youth of our country? It appears rather strange that we cannot pay tribute to some living symbols who have given more than anyone could ask during a lifetime. Shopping for a new home and arranging for the needed financing go hand in hand. There are few families who have all the cash on hand to pay for a new home right at the outset, so sound and adequate financing is most important.

If you're buying an existing home, we can quickly tell you if you can get a loan in the amount needed to make the purchase.

If you're going to build a home, you'll probably need a construction loan. One of the advantages of getting a construction loan from us is that the progress and quality of the construction is checked through periodic inspections.
